STANFORD LAW SCHOOL'S

GENERAL COUNSEL INSTITUTE:

Managing Risk and Compliance in a Faltering Economy

November 6 & 7, 2008
Waldorf Astoria
New York, NY

Stanford
Law School

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION:

The Stanford Law School Inaugural General Counsel Institute is an intensive two-day program for general counsels of publicly traded and private corporations and other senior level in-house lawyers. The program will bring together leading GCs, other senior in-house attorneys, CEOs, jurists, scholars, regulators and outside counsel at a venue poised to become the premier program for in-house continuing legal education.

The program offers a blend of the latest information on critical issues facing every in-house counsel today—risk management and regulatory compliance (including FCPA issues), corporate governance issues, managing outside counsel and their fees, advising the board, handling the media and ethical concerns—combined with programming designed to address more specialized topics. The program will assist senior in-house lawyers in keeping current on best practices and the latest legal developments, generate practical take-away pointers and provide valuable networking opportunities.

TOPICS INCLUDE:

The Media—Friend and Foe

Labor and Employment

Everything You Need to Know about Intellectual Property and How to Protect It
